This work was made possible by the material and intellectual support of Matthew Fox. As a co-founder of the Physics Monastery, Matt committed several years of full-time effort to this project, sustaining both its daily momentum and the conditions required for its continuation. He independently discovered several of the transforms that later became entries in the Transform Dictionary and contributed numerous conceptual insights during the project's development. His decision to provide long-term material support—including maintaining the Monastery as a dedicated research space—made it possible for me to devote sustained, uninterrupted attention to the work presented here.

I am also deeply grateful to Angela Arvizu, Elaine and Phil Emmi, Vanessa Moon, David Heggli, Eschelon Azha, and Avi Rubin, each of whom provided essential personal support and hospitality at critical stages of the research. Their generosity afforded the time, stability, and focus required for extended periods of uninterrupted work.

Additional thanks are owed to Mike Ritter, Kevin Sirios, Jerry Gardner, and Shauna Montgomery, as well as to the Physics Monastery Patreon community—particularly Tim Dodge, Attie Retief, Seth Lamancusa, InvaderH, Mike Godzina, L, and Wayne Eskridge—whose encouragement and support helped sustain this thorough investigation.
